

Dear Shareholders,

I can say with confidence this is my favorite shareholder letter to date. First and foremost, I want to welcome Raonall Smith to the board. Mr. Smith is going to be an incredible asset to our organization. His experience and leadership have already helped us build the foundation and his continued involvement will undoubtedly help us thrive in 2019 and beyond.

While things may seem to be moving slow from the outside, we have been very hard at work. Our team continues to actively work with the OTC markets to update all of our corporate information, and the removal of the C.E. is certainly getting closer. I have discussed this issue at length and I have made a commitment to transparent leadership, so here is what I have to say about the Caveat Emptor. I have had countless conversations about this process and it's not actually that difficult to remove. The delay comes from the fact that we are attempting to preserve as much of the non-operating losses as possible and maximize our carry forward tax-loss benefits. As most of you well know, WSHE has been around for a long time and we are using the full scope of our team to ensure that we accurately account for and maximize our tax benefits that have been accruing over the last decade. The accounting division has asked for some additional time to complete the task before we turn over the financials. I assure you they are well aware of the motivations we all have to see our stock trading free and clear and as soon as I'm informed that we have maximized our position, we will forge ahead.

On a more exciting note, I am pleased to announce two new opportunities. The first is a transaction we've been working on for months to acquire the assets and I.P. of Atlas Cannabis. GreenLink and Atlas have entered into a memorandum of understanding and a definitive agreement is in its final stage of review. This deal expands our product offerings and will be key in developing new markets for licensing opportunities. Further, it includes heavy machinery and equipment that will be leased through our farm management program and aid in the expansion of our facilities here in the Pacific Northwest.

The next update is something I am very proud to share with all of you and is a major development for our organization. We have entered into an MOU to acquire Hyxus, a traceability platform that I believe will revolutionize the space and allow us to scale immediately. The primary function of Hyxus is to provide management teams with seed to sale traceability software that goes beyond cannabis products. It also tracks non-cannabis inventory and incorporates task management into one tool that allows business to streamline operations in a way that I have not seen in the space. We will be working closely with the Hyxus team to finalize the definitive agreement and upon it's completion, we will provide a more comprehensive announcement outlining the specific features and benefits. These developments have the office buzzing with excitement and 2019 is setting up to be an incredible year for GreenLink!

I want to thank all of you who have joined us on this journey and I look forward to our next correspondence. We are going to attempt to use the OTC platform to upload video content on a regular basis to increase the information flow between the executive team and shareholders. Look out for the first installment very soon.

Sincerely,

Jake George
